(Manufactured by the Firm of Irresponsible Chutney and Co.)

The Birthday Parade was a success in every way, and the marching past very fine indeed. It seemed strange, however, not to see the Volunteers taking part in the annual tribute to Her Most Gracious Majesty, and a good deal of talk among them has resulted and some dissatisfaction. However, they had the chance this year of looking on at their leisure, a pleasure they have not enjoyed for some time.

When the news of the relief of Mafeking reached the Firm, Gussy, who has been remarkably quiet of late, locked himself up in his room from which, half-an-hour later, he emerged pale and dishevelled, to read the following record to the Senior:

They told us British men were boys, undisciplined and weak. A corporal said to a soldier, "You got it, you scum and rock."

But, ask of Africa's soldier to-day: Here we have no heroes there?

From Tuli down to Tlobo Roy, we've boys who do and dare.

Ask, "Why don't you ask Kimberley?" ask Mafeking if they

That noblest British heart, to lead the boys in play?

The world may sneer, the world may jeer, at England's soldier boys.

But, God, they'll show you, "You fools, you," they are no puny boys.

They got to hold a rifle, and their bayonet thrust is keen:

They fight for mankind's freedom and for country, God and Queen.

They do not carry Bibles in their haversacks, we know.

But fight as well as those who ostentatiously do so.

Their religion does not move them to despair, singing all the day.

Yet, in his heart of hearts the Tommy secretly can pray.

And with him rank those other ones who have Colonial sons.

Who've taught the enemy to fear their lances and their guns.

All honour to the brave who held through-out the dreary siege.

With never thought of giving in, oh! not to their liege.

In English hearts, in English homes, we'll honour them to-day.

Those gallant, glorious British men who fought the deadly fray.

Why was none of you at the Birthday Parade this year? People went down to hear the banding and to see the lads, and they were grievously disappointed. Has all the gunpowder been used up in South Africa?

'Lookalike' is perfectly correct in what he says, but one can hardly see how, with the limited space at our disposal, the position at Volunteer Headquarters is to be improved, unless indeed they build a platform out over the Cathedral grounds. Better accommodation at Headquarters Buildings might certainly be obtained by the addition of another storey, but the parade ground will all have to remain strictly hailed and, should the force increase, the drills will have to be gone through more seasonally than they are at present. It will be interesting to know if Volunteers, like the Brennan torpedo, can be made to piece together, when occasion arises, the component parts may be fitted together as a perfect whole.

Will nothing wake up the Jubilee Memorial Committee, or are they waiting for some uncertainty, to the of public, unknown but perhaps justifiable purpose of their own? Surely, we should have to go a long way indeed to find a representative body so absolutely indifferent to public opinion as this appears to be. They have been goaded at by the press and the people anytime this twelve months past, but to complaints and objections alike they seem to be stone deaf. Come, come, as "Traveler" says in effect, you have got our money, will you kindly let us know when you are going to use it? Surely it is time you did something to justify the community in placing you where you are. Remember, honourable though your position be, you are only the agents of the general community.

To linewash or not to linewash, that is the question? and our local sanitarians have split themselves up into two camps over it. From the point of view of Dr. Hartigan and his supporters linewashing is ineffectual as a plague preventative, while Dr. Clark and his following argue just the other way, when doctors disagree what is there men to do? We are firmly of opinion that a judicious and frequent use of the linewash brush is of the greatest use in producing hygienic results otherwise unobtainable, especially when we come to consider the filthy habits of the population with whom we have to deal, and are, therefore, with the linewashers heart and soul. Perhaps, the use of antiseptics might be combined with it, but we should have to do the disinfecting and deodorizing ourselves for, if left to the Citizens, the work would otherwise be shirked. It is no time for debating, however, with the plague daily gaining ground. Have absolute cleanliness, if possible, and as this is not easily attainable, get as near to it as you can, and then go to work with your chloride of lime, sulphuric acid and carbolic acid, permanganate of potash or such other disinfectants as you may approve, only don't delay the work by arguing over it.

The Medical Officer of Health is a very sensitive man: if he expects to gain the much-needed assistance he requires. If there was a question of a new barracks, extension to the Naval Yard or anything else naval or military, permission would be readily granted by the Local and assisted by the House Government, but the requirements of the civilian community, such as the Post Office, new Law Courts, and other things, including the assistance asked for by the overworked Medical Officer of Health, must wait. There is no hurry for them; they are not of paramount importance to Imperial interests, but they are only a mere Colonial concern. That is about the hang of affairs, the Firm takes it.

The first step in Imperial Federation will have been taken by the passing of the Commonwealth Bill. It is a step gained in Colonial representation, not a long one, it is true, but in the right direction. It is the introduction, let us hope, to more extended representation of Colonial interests in both houses of the British Parliament, when people who know something about the countries they represent will be able to teach the British legislators and compel attention by the sheer force of intimate knowledge. The working man will, in the future, cease to associate the boomerang with a strange animal or to identify the wallaby with a river.

The other night, at a Masonic function, when the toast of the Grand Master of Scotland was proposed, the pianist struck up 'The Land of the Leal' and out of a company numbering some forty souls, not one seemed to have a very clear appreciation of what it was, until the domineering turned it into 'Auld Langsyne' when it was a case of let her go Galloway.

THE DUTIES OF THE MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH.

PROPOSAL TO APPOINT AN ASSISTANT.

Yesterday afternoon, at the meeting of the Sanitary Board—Mr Osborne proposed the following motion of which he had given notice:—That the Sanitary Board are unanimously of opinion that an Assistant Medical Officer of Health is urgently needed to do the duties and responsibilities of the Department are more than one Medical man can be reasonably expected to undertake. He said—in proposing the resolution which stands in my name, it is unnecessary to add to what has already been written and said on the subject except it be for the information of the members who were appointed to the Board subsequent to the meeting on 28th Oct. last. On that date the Board unanimously adopted the suggestion of the committee appointed to consider the questions of additions to the Sanitary staff, and one of those recommendations was the appointment of an Assistant Medical Officer of Health, a qualified medical man, whose whole time should be given to the work of the Sanitary Board and whose pay and position should be such as to attract a man worthy of carrying on the arduous duties now so fully fulfilled by Dr. Clark in the event of that gentleman's absence. The Government, however, did not accede to the Board's request. It must be evident to every member of the Board that the work done by Dr. Clark is of a nature which cannot in the interests of the colony be handed over to a layman, because of the nature and complexity of the work which he does. The medical and legal points and the mass of Sanitary laws and by-laws which the Medical Officer of Health has to travel through in his every day's work requires a man to be in constant touch with the subject, and this will be especially so with the coming into operation of the new Sanitary Properties Ordinance. There are many other reasons which could be urged in favour of the appointment, but I think, Sir, that on these grounds alone it is our duty to recommend the matter again to the Government's favourable consideration.

Dr. Clark absolutely required an assistant and there was no doubt but the division of labour would be of great use at the present time when Dr. Clark was so much occupied with office work and attention to the details of the Ordinance.

Dr. Lawson supporting the motion said he had experience of Dr. Clark's work and he was of opinion that an extra man should be appointed.

Dr. Hartigan fully endorsed the necessity of having an Assistant Medical Officer of Health, but was strongly against his being mixed up with the medical department. It led to endless trouble before. It led to endless trouble before. It led to endless trouble before.

Dr. Hartigan said it was all very well for Dr. Hartigan to come there and rear about putting everything right and keep up what he might term his municipal ideas. He (Dr. Lawson) might mention here that although he was very ill in his illness he had had a little more experience of the Colony, especially in the medical time, than him. He thought there would be no harm in getting the assistance of Dr. Clark in the medical department. Dr. Hartigan had to pay for two men out of his own pocket it would come to a different story. It was against all common sense.

Dr. Clark said he did not think the Principal Civil Medical Officer is speaking to the point before us.

Dr. Lawson—May I continue, Mr. President?

The President (Hon. R. D. Ormsby). Yes. Are you not finished? (Laughter.)

Dr. Lawson—No, I was interrupted. Continuing Dr. Lawson said those were matters which wanted a lot of inquiry into, and surely the Government were the first people to know that they had got to inquire into those matters and he did not think that Dr. Hartigan, simply because he had a quarrel with the Government, ought to carry money to the Government.

The President said he was quite in sympathy with the Principal Civil Medical Officer. They had no right to dictate to the Government how they were to employ any officer they brought from home. The motion was then unanimously agreed to.

The President explained that in some cases he did not vote because his position was peculiar. He was a member of the Legislative Council and also President of the Sanitary Board and he did not think it necessary for him to commit himself in any way till the matter came before the Legislative Council.

Dr. Lawson—Sometimes it might be judicious for you as a member of the Legislative Council, to drop us an inkling as to how the wind is blowing. (Laughter.)

THE WAR.

(Via Australia.)

An Escape from Pretoria.

London, May 25.—Two Australians who escaped from Pretoria, state that they possessed a map of small compass. They narrowly escaped from the Boer patrol, and travelled at night as it was useless to think the bush offered cover. They waded many swamps and rivers and suffered from want of food and clothing and the intensely cold nights. Eventually they boarded a night goods-train at Waterloofort, bound for Dalgatja Bay, hiding in bales of wool covered with tarpaulin. The railway officials sought the train at Koonaport, but failed to discover the men. They state the prisoners at Waterloofort suffer from in adequate sanitation, medical attendance, food and scanty shelter. Half of the men were suffering from low fever.

Roberts and Kekewich.

Lord Roberts eulogises Colonel Kekewich

and his gallantry in the capture of the and also Mr. Cecil Rhodes, who so materially contributed to the defence of Kimberley.

Colonel Kekewich explains that the lack of artillery compelled concentration, and explained his inability to despatch forces against the Boers.

Transvaal Volksraad.

Laurel wreaths adorned the four vacant seats at the Transvaal Volksraad caused by the death in fighting of members.

President Kruger in opening his address the loyal co-operation of the people in the defence of the Republic.

Our Legislature in dealing with Britain in 1899 proved their pacific intentions, but now that war has occurred I will do every thing to secure peace. He stated the war was not a war of the Boers, their finances are flourishing, and later remarked that if he was sent to St. Helena the Republic cause would still continue.

Boer Prisoners.

The Dutch Colonial friends of the Boer prisoners have raised £9000 for comforts

for the prisoners who are going to St.

Helena.

Late Telegrams.

Indian Famine Fund.

London, May 25.—The New Zealand

Government has donated £5,000 to the Indian Famine Fund.

Gold Currency in India.

Lord George Hamilton in the House of Commons said that the Gold Coinage put in circulation in India on the 1st of May amounted to £2,077,649.

The Trouble in Ashanti.

May 10.—Governor Hodgson's Kassian telegram up to the 3rd inst. described several thousand rebels as attacking the Fort for four hours continuously. The rebels having to evacuate their cantonments and concentrate in the Fort. They ultimately reached with heavy loss.

Twenty-two of our natives were killed.

The contingent of 1000s. Constabulary troops arrived, having out their way through 800 of the enemy in two days' fighting.

The present occupants of the Fort number 350, including 18 Europeans. There is plenty of food, and the weather is clear.

A New Indian Order.

Calcutta, May 12.—A Royal Warrant appeared in to-day's Gazette wherein the
